Mississippi tornadoes kill eight, injure 70

News in brief

Planet earth takes it on the chin

WASHINGTON (AP)—The planet earth was cursed by 26 major tanker oil spills of 10,000 gallons or more last year, an average of one incident every two weeks. Eleven of the spills occurred in U.S. waters. Reporting this, the Smithsonian Institution's Center for Short-Lived Phenomena said the oil spills were among 92 environmental-pollution events last year, 64 of them man-made.

Negotiate over steel furnaces

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Negotiations continue between U.S. Steel Corp. and the federal government over the future of heavily polluting open-hearth furnaces at Gary, Ind., and some 2,500 jobs hang in the balance.

The nation's largest steelmaker has closed the 10 furnaces rather than pay a fine for pollution, and the company disclosed Thursday that the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has rejected U.S. Steel's counterproposal.

Costs shrink turkey production

WASHINGTON (AP)—High feed costs and other rising expenses are taking a toll of turkey production, according to the Agriculture Department.

Officials said Thursday that a survey in 20 major production states shows that growers intend to reduce production 6 per cent from 1974. The survey showed that if producers carry out intentions there will be 119 million turkeys raised in the 20 states this year, compared with almost 127 million in 1974.

The report showed that an inventory of turkey breeder hens as of Dec. 1 showed their numbers were down 16 per cent from a year earlier. Of those, officials said, heavy breeds of hens were down the most but that light breeds also were down from Dec. 1, 1975.

Cattle prices below year ago

WASHINGTON (AP)—In early January, according to Agriculture Department livestock reports, farm market prices of cattle were still running well below a year earlier.

The average quotation for choice-grade steers at Midwestern markets during the week ended Jan. 4, the department said Thursday, was $35.65 per 100 pounds, compared with $36.34 the previous week and $42.45 a year earlier.

The figures showed, however, that the producers are marketing their animals at lighter weights. In the week ended Jan. 4, officials said, the average weight of cattle sold at Midwestern markets was 1,129 pounds per head, compared with 1,141 the previous week and 1,170 pounds a year earlier.

Air attacks reported by S. Viets

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—The South Vietnamese military command today reported more air attacks on North Vietnamese troops and bases in Phuoc Long province and hard ground fighting in the Mekong Delta south of Saigon. The government admitted heavy losses in two clashes in the delta, reporting 19 of its troops killed, 19 missing and 34 wounded.

Irish seek cease-fire extension

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—Irish religious leaders meet with Prime Minister Liam Cosgrave today, seeking his help in getting the Irish Republican Army to again extend its Christmas cease-fire in Northern Ireland. Government sources said there was little chance Cosgrave would make any gesture toward the illegal guerrilla army. Two days ago, with the cease-fire in its 17th day, Dublin police arrested Kevin Mallon, one of the IRA leaders who helped arrange the truce.

Squatters take over royalty homes

LONDON (AP)—More than 100 squatters have occupied a stately row of houses owned by Queen Elizabeth II and her family. Most are unemployed or nearly so. Some are students and others are drifters. All are young. "We're here because we have nowhere else to go; it's as simple as that," said Robert Newman, 18. The squatters said they will keep up the taxes and pay the utility bills. The 21 three-story houses and the mews cottages behind them are managed by the Crown Estate commissioners, who said they are considering whether to begin evictions. They said the houses were vacated for redevelopment.

Onboard bomb causes TWA crash

WASHINGTON (AP)—A bomb on board caused the Trans World Airlines jetliner crash which killed 88 persons off the coast of Greece last September, the National Transportation Safety Board says. The successful sabotage was the first against a United States aircraft since 1964 when a Pacific Airlines flight crashed after the pilots were shot.

23 killed in California crashes

NEW YORK (AP)—In-flight plane collisions over California and Virginia took an apparent toll of 23 lives. Fourteen persons died at Whittier, Calif., in a collision involving a commuter airliner and a small plane. Another nine were feared dead in a Newport News, Va., crash involving an Air Force training plane and a single-engine craft. The California collision involved a Cessna 150 and a Golden West Airliner. The Virginia collision involved a Cessna 150 and an Air Force T29 propeller-driven plane on final approach to Langley Air Force base in Newport News.

Pueblo controversy re-surfaced

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The controversy over the capture of the USS Pueblo has surfaced again with a charge by the ship's former executive officer that Cmdr. Lloyd Bucher prolonged the crew's suffering with "self-centered antics." The charge came Thursday at a small military ceremony at which Edward R. Murphy, once Bucher's second-in-command, was to be awarded the Navy Commendation Medal. As Murphy was about to get his medal, he suddenly said, "I'd like to read a statement." He rejected the medal as "shallow," and said that he and another officer had accepted a North Korean offer "to man the USS Pueblo and return it and the crew to our country." He said Bucher and other officers refused.

Alaskans are too cold to mush

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—It is too cold in Alaska to mush. The 49th state is longing for a seaborne storm and the accompanying warming winds to boost the thermometer above zero. But forecasters say immediate prospects for such relief are dim. Even dog teams are staying home because of the cold blast. Sled-dog mushers canceled last weekend's scheduled races. Thursday Anchorage recorded temperatures near 20 below zero. Some 700 miles north in the oil fields at Prudhoe Bay it was 44 below. Bettles Field had 55 below.

$15 billion cut proposed

Taxpayers would receive rebate checks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford, after deciding to seek an antirecession tax cut of about $15 billion, is weighing a novel plan to spur consumer spending by mailing government tax rebate checks to millions of U.S. taxpayers, administration officials said today.

As Ford's economic advisers met at the White House, several sources confirmed the President's approval of the tax cut—a one-time-only reduction of about 10 per cent in taxes due by individuals for 1974—as a major element in his program to pull the nation out of the deepening recession.

If approved by Congress, the sources said, the plan could involve sending U.S. Treasury checks to millions of taxpayers.

As outlined by sources, here is how the proposed plan would work:

The amount an individual taxpayer, or couple, owes for 1974 federal income taxes would be reduced by about 10 per cent. For a couple whose 1974 tax bill totals $3,000, this would mean a cut of about $300.

If the plan is not enacted until after most taxpayers pay their 1974 bills, rebates in the form of government checks would be necessary. But if it were quickly adopted by Congress, taxpayers presumably would simply deduct the amount of the reduction from their taxes due to be paid by April 15.

Presumably the tax rebates would be handled separately from tax refund checks, due those entitled to refunds for over-withholding deductions.

Officials cautioned that final decisions had not been made on the rebate plan, but several sources said it was in the outline of the President's program now being presented to top level officials.

Another key element of the program is a $3 per barrel levy on imported and domestic oil. This would result in higher retail gasoline prices, but officials said ways of returning the estimated $15 billion to $18 billion raised by such levies to the economy are being considered.

To ease the impact of a rebate system on the Treasury, officials were talking in terms of spreading the rebates to individual taxpayers over a nine-month period. This could mean, for example, that some taxpayers would receive a check in April, while others would receive checks in July or September.

"It's not a question of everyone getting their checks on April 15," said one source familiar with the economic planning.

As the high level economic discussions continued today, indications mounted that Ford would present his State of the Union address to Congress next week soon after it opens its 94th session. The previously targeted date had been Jan. 20.

A decision on timing of the address presumably was a major topic scheduled for discussion in Ford's afternoon conference with House Speaker Carl Albert.

The idea of sending every taxpayer a check was reminiscent of Sen. George McGovern's pledge during the 1972 presidential campaign to replace the welfare system with a minimum income grant that would be paid to every citizen. Annual checks of $1,000 would be sent to every citizen, according to one example that McGovern used to demonstrate his plan.

The plan reportedly being studied by the Ford administration could conceivably fit in with tentative presidential decisions to impose a $3-per-barrel levy on imported and domestic oil and channel that revenue back into the economy in the form of lower taxes or a "rebate" device.

One Ford aide cautioned against any suggestion the President had decided on the unusual plan to place spendable cash in consumers' hands. "All the pieces of the puzzle aren't fitting together," he said.

But other sources said such a plan means U.S. Treasury checks sent to taxpayers could total anywhere from $15 billion to $30 billion. This would average about $70 to $140 for each of the roughly 200 million men, women and children in America.

The theory on which such a plan is based goes like this: Americans uncertain over their economic future have curtailed their spending for such major expenditures as automobiles and appliances.

This in turn has sharply curtailed demand for the products of some of America's basic industries. Those industries have been forced to lay off thousands of workers, thus worsening the economic tailspin.

If American families receive an infusion of spendable cash, they might revise their economic thinking and make postponed purchases, therefore heightening demand and production.

But sources who discussed the government check technique acknowledged it had problems. One would be the simple, mechanical task of processing millions of government checks. Another would be that no one really knows what Americans would do with such an injection of funds.

The President already has tentatively decided on an income tax cut in the $15 billion range, several sources said. This cut could be implemented by simply returning money to taxpayers—an approach which fits into the plan reportedly under consideration by Ford to inject spendable cash into the economy.

A more orthodox way to car-there was a shortage of ambulances to handle the injured.

"The National Guard armory was wiped out and we usually use that for support when we need more ambulances," he said.

However, he credited school officials with keeping the injury count low. "Evidently they did a pretty good job of getting the kids protected," he said.

Other twisters were reported at Natchez and Greenville, where damage was said to be light, and west of Monticello, at the small town of Nola, where Civil Defense workers said barns and houses were damaged.

Officials said a twister passed over Brandon and Pelahatchie, east of Jackson, but did not touch down.

Treatment at the McComb hospital was hampered because the hospital's primary power supply was knocked out. However, the spokesman said, "We have been able to handle it pretty well. We go through disaster drills four times a year and had one just two months ago."

Oliver Emmerich, editor of the McComb Enterprise-Journal, said he heard the twister roaring toward his house.

"It kept getting stronger and stronger and then it began to get so powerful. All of a sudden it was there—trees coming down all around us, glass knocked out in our home."

"We are surrounded by tremendous oaks, and it just pulled most of them up by the roots."

Other witnesses described the elegant old neighborhood as a shambles. All utility lines were down. Trees littered the streets and lay across houses.

The storm's path bypassed the main business section. It

Illinois hit

HARRISBURG, Ill. (AP)—A tornado touched down today at a small airport about five miles north of Harrisburg in Saline County, authorities said.

There were no immediate reports of injuries from county sheriff's deputies dispatched to the scene but there was undetermined damage to airport facilities. A police dispatcher said there were reports of some trailer homes being damaged or overturned in Raleigh, a small community near the airport.

In addition, the dispatcher said, there was radio traffic about a possible tornado at Shawneetown, several miles east.

In Texas, snowdrifts as tall as three feet dotted the Panhandle today, and numerous points in East Texas surveyed wind damage in the wake of raging thunderstorms and at least one tornado.

ry out such a tax cut would be to reduce withholding rates. But one source said some of Ford's economic advisers believe this would not achieve the sought-after goal of a rapid infusion of funds into the economy.

In other economic developments:

—Tax relief for low- and middle-income families will have top priority in an emergency measure aimed for House passage in March, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., said. Ullman is in line to become chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee and he said he will ask the panel to begin work immediately on a tax-cut bill.

—Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said in Detroit Thursday night that the administration's new economic program will be "guided by compassion and understanding for those who have been hit the hardest by our economic troubles."

—The Labor Department predicted that federal, state and local governments will spend some $17 billion to aid jobless workers this year through programs such as public service jobs and unemployment insurance.

—More than 11,000 workers learned Thursday they would be laid off their jobs indefinitely. Auto manufacturers and companies that supply them accounted for most of the total.

Ford given bad rating

NEW YORK (AP)—President Ford has been given a negative job rating by a majority of those questioned in a Harris poll for the first time since he assumed office, pollster Louis Harris said today.

Results of a survey taken between Dec. 13 and 17 among 1,466 adults nationwide showed 46 per cent positive, 52 per cent negative and 2 per cent not sure on the question of rating Ford's performance in office.

Lending rate cut to 10%

NEW YORK (AP)—Two of the nation's largest commercial banks cut their prime lending rates to 10 per cent today.

First National City Bank of New York, second largest, dropped its prime one-quarter point to 10 per cent, effective Monday.

Bankers Trust Co. of New York, the nation's sixth largest commercial bank, cut the rate it charges on loans to its most creditworthy business borrowers by a half-point to 10 per cent, also effective Monday.

Gitmo base needed by U.S. defense

By HENRY J. TAYLOR

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger states: "I think there will be some evolution of the Cuban issue during 1975." But undisclosed tension rises in Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger and his department regarding our U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo.

Cuba stands inside our own Caribbean defense perimeter, 90 miles from Florida's shores—a Soviet bastion rimmed with fire. Guantanamo is a strategic imperative—absolutely indispensable—in the American interest. Moreover, we have been there 72 years.

Our great, multibillion dollar naval and air base covers 45 square miles and is surrounded by 50,000 American mines, the largest mine field in the world.

It is on Guantanamo Bay on the island's south underside, close to the Windward Passage between Cuba and Haiti that links the Caribbean and Panama. It has one of the world's largest and best sheltered harbors, four miles wide, 12 miles long, and its narrow entrance makes Guantanamo ideal for defense.

The Soviet posts an electronically equipped spy ship offshore. Worldwide, the U.S.S.R. has at least 40. They're not only productive, but are all part of the Soviet's ceaseless demonstration of Soviet resources and knowledge in an attempt to bully the United States. We have only two.

The Soviet now regularly patrols the western Caribbean with three additional spy ships. They refuel and reprovision at Cienfuegos, near Guantanamo on the south underside, and the Mexican port of Ensenada.

Every submarine makes a slightly different sound—"signature"—when travelling submerged. Our Navy painstakingly discovers and records these "signatures," as the Russians well know, by U.S. submarines lying silently in the depths. Additionally, our Navy uses a vast, nearly incredible system of underwater microphones—code-named SOSUS—we planted on the ocean floor.

A submarine's sound detected on any two microphones is triangulated to reveal the sub's position. But we now have no SOSUS ocean-bottom microphones on Cuba's south coast. On Cuba's underside, meaning Guantanamo, we lose the Soviet submarine. We are "deaf" there. Why?

The Soviet has completed its naval base construction at Cienfuegos. But it is being expanded. So is its submarine base on the Isle of Pines, Segunaea Bay, and the Chullian (Havana Province) shipyard. All this combines with the Soviet military adaptation of the vast, undetectable Caverna de Santo, Caverna del Suisenor, Escaleras de Jaruco and Caguanes caves.

The Kremlin has made the Soviet-guarded city of Remedios the command headquarters for Soviet-directed air patrols constantly surveying Guantanamo. These take off from San Antonio de Los Baños and the Soviet's San Julian air base, 90 miles southeast of Havana, the island's largest air force station.

Most of the far-flying planes can be instantly converted into bombers merely by attaching the bomb rack. Each can launch a larger and more devastating atomic missile than is launched by a U.S. Polaris submarine.

Yet to please Castro and the U.S.S.R. alike, our own U.S. air Photographic reconnaissance of Cuba has been, step-by-step, reduced to occasional token flights. Why?

Our Navy calls Guantanamo "Gitmo" and it still protects 400 Cuban refugees who fled there from Castro's tyranny in 1960. In addition, 200 Cuban citizens continue to work inside our base. But since 1960 Castro has refused to accept further U.S. rent payments, although we have a rent lease made virtually perpetual in 1934.

Switzerland represents the United States in Cuba and the United States delivers the checks to the Swiss embassy in Havana for Castro's government. But they are never cashed.

In 1964 Castro cut off Guantanamo's water supply. Our base still desalinates its water supply. Then in 1964 Castro ringed the base with barbed wire and fortification outposts. This is its condition today.

Mr. Kissinger is clearly less concerned about Guantanamo than the Defense Department—if our base stands in the way of what he calls movement in the Cuban issue in 1975. But Soviet "detente" is one thing. The defense of the United States is quite another.

So-called "detente" may come and go. Our homeland's defense is our permanent duty. We surrender it to our everlasting peril.

Voice of the people

To the Editor:

It is my opinion that the CIA should be allowed the power to be able to perform domestic spying in our country due to the fact that there are so many subversive organizations in our country bent upon the overthrow of our government from within our own country.

We are living in the greatest country in the world yet today, but we are losing our grip as a world power for the Russians and the Red Chinese by our own tactics of greed, hate and lack of propriety in our national standards.

My prediction is that someday we will earn the wrath we deserve for our foolishness altogether.

Ralph Alexander

To the Editor:

I am writing to you concerning an article you had in the paper not so long ago. It was about the sheriff wanting a Traffic Division.

I have been wondering why he would want a Traffic Division when the roads are supposed to be patrolled by road deputies.

This also brings up another point. I have heard people telling of the new lady deputy patrolling the county. My question is has she been to school in order to be qualified to patrol the county? I've heard she is a crack shot with a weapon, but does this qualify her to patrol the county?

I would like to see a breakdown of the sheriff's budget printed in the paper as to what the money is to be used for and as to what money has been spent out of the budget already, if any, I feel that if he's asking for all that money that the county taxpayers have a right to know what it's going to be used for.

I would like to know if a member of the Merit Board is selected as to who the sheriff wants or if he's selected and is he able to hold other positions.

I also read in the paper about break-ins and burglaries in the county but not about the arrest of the people who commit these crimes. I would like to know the ratio between the break-ins and other related crimes reported in the county and the arrest of the people for these said crimes.

To me the sheriff's detective division could be improved as to what it is now.

Sincerely yours,
Michael Bennett

Competition sets costs

By DON OAKLEY

An interesting if not altogether enlightening colloquy between members of the House-Senate Joint Economic Committee and a spokesman for the supermarket industry took place in Washington in the waning days of the 93rd Congress.

Spearheading the committee's investigation into the cost of food, Sens. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., cited the frequency of identical prices in different supermarkets and suggested that the chains arrange among themselves to avoid head-on competition.

He was "astonished," said Humphrey, to learn that a check of A&P and Safeway stores in Kansas City last October showed identical prices on 2,969 out of 3,955 items. The two chains are respectively first and second in size and sales in the United States.

William S. Mitchell, president of Safeway, countered that identical prices are actually proof that competition exists in the industry. When one store drops a price, others follow, he said. Thus identical prices mean they are competing, not colluding.

"We check each other's prices," said Mitchell, "and nobody in this business is going to be undersold."

Moreover, he added, the chains buy at the same prices from food producers and have similar costs.

At the same time that the committee was receiving a lesson in basic business economics, however, the nation was being given a different illustration of how the free enterprise system works.

Defending his company's recent average 8 per cent price increase, which it rolled back slightly under pressure from the Ford administration, U.S. Steel chairman Edgar B. Speer explained that about three-fourths of the new prices represented a "Catch-up" of U.S. Steel vs. prices with those being charged by its major competitors.

On the face of it then, U.S. Steel was voluntarily relinquishing the advantage it presumably held over its competitors by virtue of having prices lower than theirs.

Not only is this hard to understand, but just whom the nation's No. 1 steelmaker was catching up with is not clear. At least two other companies, Bethlehem Steel and Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel, immediately announced that they would raise their prices to the levels set by U.S. Steel.

Take it from Here

REFLECTIONS— This will sound like the wildest science fiction story you have ever read but it comes from straight scientific observation.

A few years ago data was fed back from the satellite Uhuru about the location of a black hole in space which was named the entrance to Cygnus X-1.

Data from Cygnus shows a giant tug of war going on between a star, 20 times greater than our sun, with some invisible force.

The "force" seems to be pulling the super huge star through space, sucking material from it in a violent reaction which generates X rays.

These X-ray beams furnished scientists with the clue to this extra-spatial struggle when Uhuru picked them up on its instruments and relayed them back to earth.

Stanley Shawhan, associate professor of physics at the University of Iowa, talking about his super strange phenomenon says, according to present scientific speculation, black holes are formed with the death of a star at least three times as large as our sun.

When a star which gets into the extra-spatial tug-of-war loses to the invisible force it seems to have its remains literally pulled out of our space and creating a hole in our constellation.

Dr. Shawhan says when the losing star's nuclear reaction begins to burn out its gasses are no longer supported by heat they fall toward the star's center.

The mystery deepens here for reasons not known to science the star's center can collapse into a sphere only two to three miles wide. This sphere is thought to be denser in weight than anything every encountered by scientists and its huge compact weight gives it a gravitational force which leads some researchers to believe it to be the ultimate source of cosmic energy.

Matter pulled into the black hole by gravity is converted to radiation energy which scientists consider to be a more efficient source of energy than the sun.

Black holes in outer space have long concealed their locations because of the terrific force of gravity which centers around them keeps a swirling violent motion which absorbs matter and energy.

As noted above the X-ray beams given off as the invisible force disintegrates completely any matter which comes into its field furnished the only clue to the place of the black holes.

So devastatingly powerful is this "force" it contradicts the long honored dictum, matter is indestructible.

How many Cygnuses there are is not known and perhaps will never be calculated.

What is behind the black holes is only conjecture, perhaps nothing, what piques the outer lining of space is the literally disseminated matter which should have no form so should have no impact on the edge of our constellation.

Dr. Shawhan says if the theories about black holes are substantiated they will prove to be a new area in the study of matter and energy.

Living on a planet which has recently become acutely aware of its finite natural resources producing energy, the hint of an untapped unlimited source of energy is quite interesting.

Some may say we have never captured the life giving energy from the sun, but so intertwined are we with our sun the biological organisms and botanical growths have an innate photosynthesis process without which we would die in the presence of the sun and because of which life is possible.

Given this created dependence on the sun of all living things on the planet, man has not been able to improve or expand his benefits from Old Sol.

It goes far beyond our ken to have any notion whether the black hole invisible force, to which we are not related, as with our sun can be an adaptable source of energy for us.

If so, it appears our energy problems will be over and the Arabs might not take over this earth by holding us up to get their oil.

Waiting for Orders!

Arabs want it kept in dollars

By MARJORIE DEANE

(Editor's Note: Roger Anderson, chairman of the board of Continental Illinois, has been with the bank for 28 years. Continental is the 31st largest bank in the world.)

The banking system the world over is said to be in more trouble than at any time since the 1930s. Do you agree? And what do you think are the most important lessons from bank failures?

Yes, I would agree on your first question. And I think the first broad lesson is that, in fact, banks can fail, including some rather large ones. That seems like an obvious answer, but I think there has been too little concern about the possibility of bank failures and therefore too little scrutiny of banking performance and financial statements.

Banks need to be analyzed from a financial standpoint in the same way as companies are. Unfortunately, it tends to be more difficult; notably in continental Europe, the financial information which banks provide is somewhat limited. Also, in many cases the data are not particularly timely; it is customarily as much as eight or nine months before banks put out their yearly statements.

There are also more risks involved in foreign exchange trading and in so-called Euro-placements. As the Eurodollar market has developed so rapidly over the last years, some banks have tended to think this was really a riskless operation: you could take funds from one bank and put them with another at a little spread and do so almost risk-free. This certainly has now changed.

Treasury Secretary William Simon has reiterated that the banking system can cope with the new problems of oil funds. Do you agree?

My own view is that the banking system cannot cope with it. First of all, there is simply the size of the funds that are involved, which has two facets.

As I indicated earlier, the amount of deposits that we're going to accept from one source is limited. Given the enormous funds of the oil producing counties, it seems to me that, with such a prudent investment policy, they will have difficulty: how much can you place with the largest 30 banks in the world?

On the other side, there are the countries that have the most severe problems paying for oil. There are some that have developed already into poor credit risks. And the banking system is not going to finance their balance of payments deficits because it can't do it on a prudent basis.

I do not believe that the banking system can cope with the recycling. It can make a contribution to it, as it already has. But it won't solve it.

Do any of you bankers really know what the Arabs want to do with their funds?

I don't think we do because I'm sure they don't. You have to remember the timing. In Saudi Arabia just a few years ago their exchange reserves were moderate. Now they are suddenly recipients of whatever number you choose—whether $25 billion or $50 billion. And how do you manage something like that? The only conclusion that one can come to, I would have thought, is that they would like to keep the majority of their investments denominated in dollars. As a matter of fact, it would seem almost impossible for them to pursue any other course.

Energy: The mirage and the reality

RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — President Ford is getting bad advice on energy.

It's come, principally, but not entirely, from Nixon holdovers, mesmerized by the concept of self sufficiency. And from theoreticians, unencumbered by engineering and economic realities.

These men have made dream-world projections of what this country can do with oil shale, sunshine, coal gasification and liquefaction, nuclear power and windmills in the next 5 to 10 years or so.

In part, this is good. These possibilities should be explored to the hilt. But much of what is dreamed of will take two to four decades or more for sound, orderly, economical development, and then not lead to self-sufficiency. Of course the latter is not desirable economically in any event.

In the beginning, self-sufficiency was intended more as a political slogan than an attainable economic goal. But Mr. Ford's men persist, against all logic, in acting as though they were dealing with reality when working on their plans for 1980 and 1985 energy production in the United States. Persistence in this self-hypnosis will only lead to major financial boondoggles and to eventual disillusionment.

There's another, more logical path open to the President and the United States. Our problem now is not, of course, a world petroleum shortage, but an oil cartel, small enough and, in the main, sufficiently close knit to raise prices or to run a boycott any time they choose. The leaders of this group are also rich enough in dollars, and small enough in population, to afford boycotts.

The practical problem, then, is not greater oil production as an end in itself but rather finding a way to break the cartel. Sure ways to achieve a breakup exist. The practical technique would be, through exploration and financial assistance, to develop a sufficient number of oil-producing areas in a range of nations worldwide so that the natural forces of competition break the power of the monopolists.

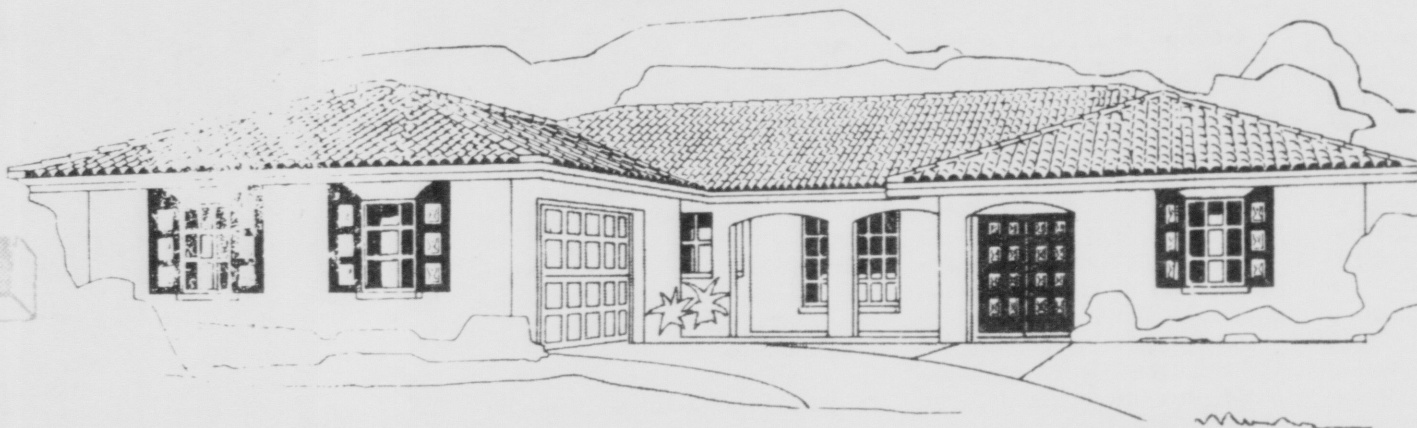

This is where the earth resources satellite will come in handy. Also wide-ranging conventional geological surveys and the talents of our own experienced oil searchers.

The continental United States has been heavily explored. There may be important finds yet to come. But probabilities are greater in wide regions overseas.

There are possibilities off the coasts of East, Southeast and South Asia, in Central and South America, in Africa south of the Sahara, in Canada's own North Slope. Added to the finds now being developed in Alaska and the North Sea, a range of new developments in the areas mentioned would make it exceedingly difficult, over the long run, for any oil cartel to enforce its dictates. In any event, much of the money these countries earned from oil revenues would be spent in the United States and the West. Most are too poor to afford a boycott.

IF YOU HAVE BEEN THINKING OF BUYING A HOME... HERE ARE TWO THINGS TO CONSIDER!

1. MONEY IS AVAILABLE

A big problem in recent months has been the tremendous lack of money available for mortgages. But right now both Savings & Loan Associations in Dixon have mortgage money available to you!

2. WAITING FOR LOWER INTEREST RATES MAY BE COSTLY!

There is no guarantee that interest rates will go down! And the longer you wait the more the home will cost! Thus the increased rate of inflation will offset any hopes for a decrease in interest rate, along with the fact that your interest is all tax deductible. BUY NOW AND OFFSET INFLATION . . .

On-location grass may look greener but Hollywood is TV's safe backyard

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (NEA)—This has been a curious TV season but, then, TV seasons have all been curious lately. Maybe this one, however, is even more curious than usual.

To beat Hollywood economics, a lot of shows elected to film on location but many of those experiments have already failed—Born Free sank in Africa, Paper Moon set in the Midwest and Nakia went under in New Mexico.

And, here in San Diego, they were about to call it quits on Harry O. The show hasn't been cancelled but the experiment of filming it all on location here has been axed. They were shooting their last episode here and they were about to fold their tents and move back north to Hollywood.

They were shooting at a beautiful spot, the Jamul Ranch, about 40 miles east of San Diego. Weather condition and topography have combined to create an area here that is reminiscent of New England.

The ranch house they were using was sprawling, large, evidently fairly modern. It belongs, David Janssen said, to some wealthy quarter-horse people. (A quarter-horse, the old gag has it, is one with two bits in his mouth.)

David Janssen and Joanna Pettet were making tentative love in the ranchhouse playroom, a huge, sunny place decorated with deer and buffalo heads and mounted fish. There were rifles stuck on the deers' antlers.

"The biggest private detective work I do every week," Janssen said, "is trying to figure out our scripts."

They finished one scene and director David Duke said, "How are the script writers coming along?"

He wasn't kidding. Behind his remark is one reason why the show has elected to cut out the location business and take itself back to the comfort and security of a Hollywood studio.

David Janssen explained the situation on this show and why they were waiting around between scenes.

"We had a meeting a few days ago," he said, "and everybody agreed that a six-page scene we have here needed to be rewritten. Well, we're ready to shoot that scene now and the new pages haven't gotten here yet."

"Maybe if I was in Los Angeles I could find out who was responsible. Maybe not—they're all pretty good at covering up. But at least up there I could put some pressure on the writers. Here I'm just stuck."

So they wandered around the ranch, looking at the horses, drinking coffee, waiting for the words to come they would have to put on film.

The decision already had been made to move Harry Orwell, the man and the show, back to Los Angeles. It would mean a few words of explanation in the script, a cast change (Henry Darrow, the San Diego policeman, would be replaced by Anthony Zerbe, as a Los Angeles policeman) but otherwise life for Janssen would go on as ever.

"I don't think the locale really matters that much," he said. "What really matters are the scripts. If we have good scripts, the setting can be anywhere."

"And it really doesn't matter to me very much where I'm working. I am here in San Diego now, but I could be anywhere, for that matter. I work six days a week. And, on Sundays, I read the next week's script and maybe watch a little football, that's all. So I could be in San Diego, or Los Angeles, or Peoria."

Actually, however, the move northward is strictly an economic one. ("Everything is an economic move these days," Janssen says. "Even going to the grocery store.") The advantage of shooting on location, away from Hollywood, is that a show is out of the jurisdiction of Hollywood's tough and demanding unions.

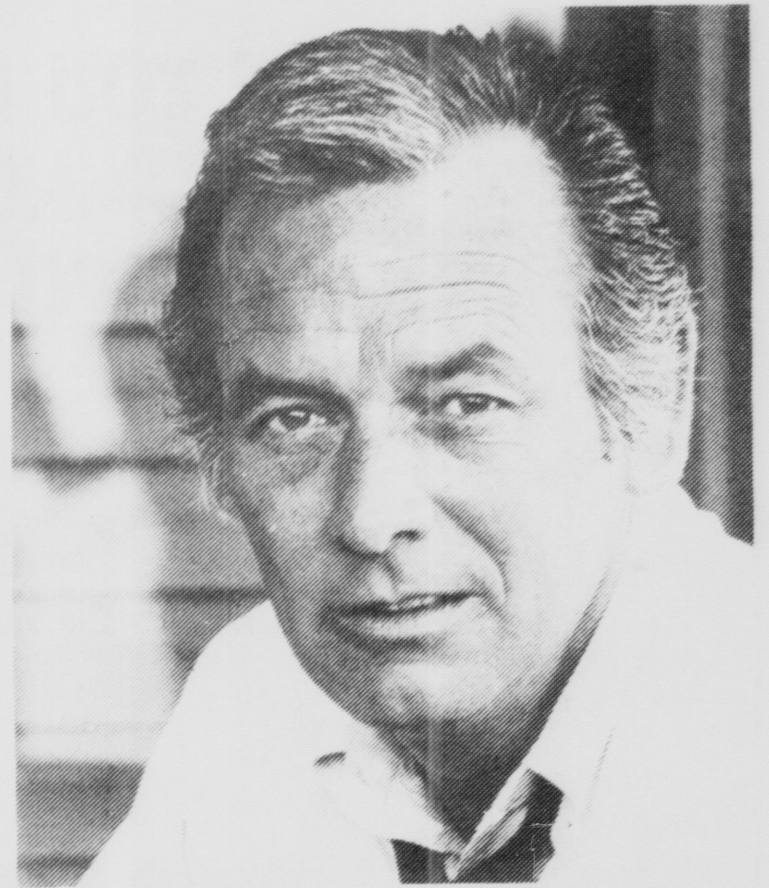

But San Diego isn't far enough away to matter—the city is still within the unions' 300-mile limit. So they have the disadvantage of having to abide by union pay scales coupled with the disadvantage of having to pay travel costs and other location expenses.

When companies use extras here, they not only have to pay them the Hollywood scale but they have to pay their transportation from Hollywood, board room.

Besides, they have problems in San Diego.

"This is a city of retired people," Janssen says, "and they seemed to resent us. Take the matter of the caterer. (On location, every company has a caterer to provide a hot lunch.)"

"We started out by asking a San Diego firm to do the job. But we couldn't find one that wanted it. So we brought in a Los Angeles outfit. It must have looked lucrative to somebody here because we began having trouble."

DAVID JANSSEN— Harry O's biggest detective job is figuring out the script.

"They trotted out an ancient law about it being illegal to prepare meals outdoors or something and forced our caterer to quit. We pulled some wheels at City Hall and got back with a local caterer."

So the San Diego experiment is over. The company has decided that it will make the move back to Los Angeles, where life is simpler. Maybe the locations and the backgrounds won't be as exotic or different but the economics will be a lot simpler. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Canadian actress to make U.S. debut

Canadian actress Kate Nelligan, acclaimed for her stage performances in England, will make her United States acting debut in "The Count of Monte Cristo," the new, two-hour "Bell System Family Theatre" special starring Richard Chamberlain which will be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Friday, Jan. 10, 7-9 p.m.

Ms. Nelligan is to portray Mercedes, whose plans to marry Edmond Dantes (Chamberlain) are destroyed on the eve of the wedding.

The actress was praised by London critics when she made her debut in the British capital earlier this year in the play "Knuckle." She has previously performed with the Bristol Old Vic troupe in 1972 and 1973. She has also acted on British television.

Ms. Nelligan, 23, studied at the Central School of Speech and Drama in London for three years after arriving in London from Canada in 1969. Her interest in acting surfaced while she was a student at the University of Ontario, where she participated in stage productions.

As a child, she developed a love for tennis — sidetracked for two years by an attack of polio. She recovered, resumed playing the game and went to become Canadian Junior Champion at 16.

Houdini is the life of a seance

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — The big question concerning the 13 people at the table was this: Would Harry Houdini decide that this was a convenient time for him to come back from the dead?

If he was ever going to make the trip tonight was the night. Everything seemed to be favored. A distinguished magician, Mark Wilson, was hosting a dinner party in the Houdini Room of the Magic Castle. All the guests were men and women who were receptive. And there was a medium, Sandy Spillman, who was an old hand with dead bodies, so to speak.

The Houdini Room houses what the Magic Castle call the greatest collection of Houdiniana anywhere — many pairs of his handcuffs, a straitjacket he once wriggled out of, chains he unchained, posters, letters, everything.

And, to make the entire evening more conducive to things spiritual, it was Hallowe'en. Not only were there spirits abroad naturally, but Hallowe'en was, Wilson said, the anniversary of Houdini's death.

When he died in 1926 he had promised his wife, Beatrice, that he would try to return. Every year, for 10 years, she had held a seance on Oct. 31. No luck. So she had abandoned her annual spiritual invitations.

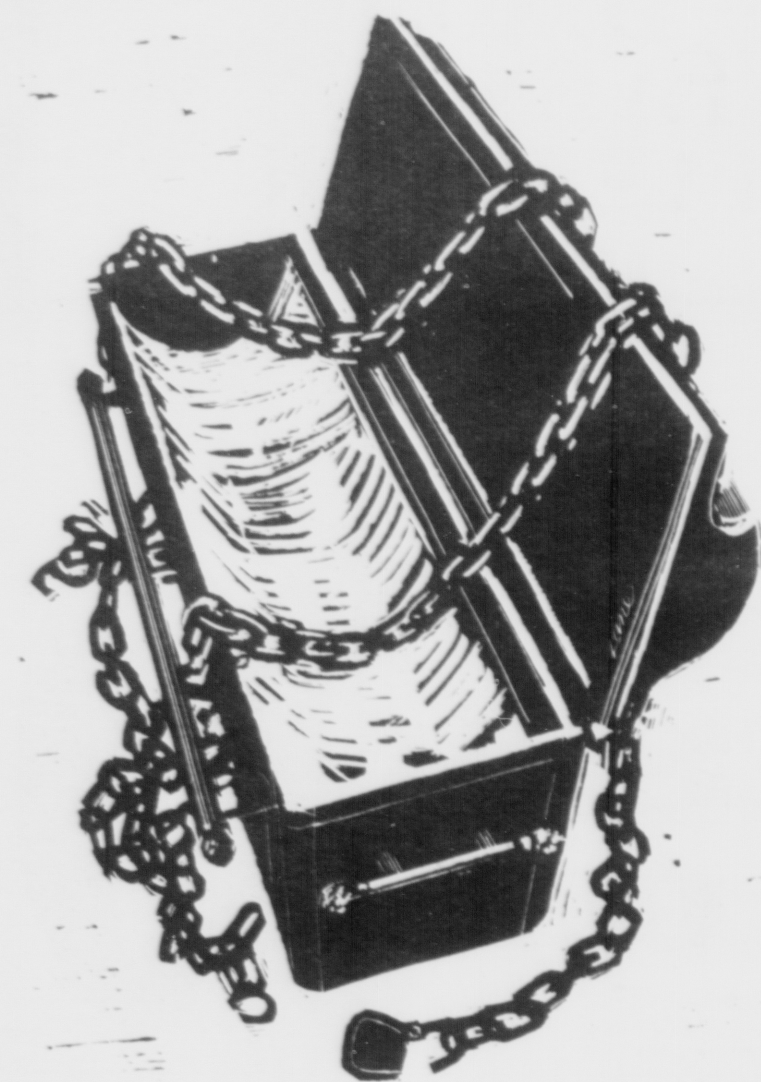

Now Wilson was reviving the attempt. He assembled his guests, and, while the spirits warmed up, everyone had food and drink and watched a few card tricks.

Then Spillman, the traditional 13th guest, arrived. Tall, white-haired, distinguished-looking, he explained the ground rules of the seance.

He made no promises. He would try, via the spirit of a Houdini friend, a certain Dr. Saint, to get the old gentleman to return. It was all in the spirit of fun, he said.

Before he began, he pointed out some of the more interesting examples of Houdiniana around the room. The framed pair of locked handcuffs the great one used. The old, broken music box he had once given Beatrice. The tambourine, broken beyond repair, he had used in a seance once himself.

The lights dimmed. Spillman called for Dr. Saint to show himself. A candle flickered. A breeze breezed. A glass on the sideboard crashed.

The old, broken music box tinkled a merry tune. The tambourine, broken beyond repair, jangled a few beats. And then, in front of our very eyes, was the very face of Houdini, as though carved out of smoke. As a light flashed from somewhere, the face revolved and, standing behind the scared 13, briefly there was another figure. Dr. Saint?

No words were exchanged with the (?) visitors (?). The medium made no claims. All I know is that there was something there and that when the lights came on again, the framed pair of locked handcuffs were unlocked.

Ford's new economic man not 'optimistic'

NEW YORK (AP) — Alan Greenspan isn't likely to make the same error as his predecessor in the job of chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers. He is not going to be overly optimistic.

Herbert Stein, chairman under President Richard M. Nixon, dug himself into a deeper hole each month by contrasting the terrible economic news with what he claimed was an imminent improvement. He lost credibility.

Greenspan told the Joint Economic Committee that the outlook wasn't pleasant, wasn't reassuring and wasn't certain. Unemployment might reach 8 per cent, he said, and he suggested the second-half recovery wouldn't be sudden.

What Greenspan learned in watching the Washington scene from his desk at Townsend-Greenspan, a consulting firm, was that economic conditions today are all but unpredictable.

This might seem so elemental as to be obvious, but the fact is that hundreds of economists are following up their abysmal forecasts of a year ago by again attempting to look a full year into the future.

Last year they missed on prices, interest rates, unemployment and a dozen other forecast areas. Their counterparts on Wall Street forecast a Dow Jones industrial average anywhere from 400 to 1,000.

This year the consensus seems to be for a gradual recovery by summer, with interest rates falling a bit and the rate of inflation — but note, not prices — falling sharply.

Last year the economists complained that they were forced to evaluate too many factors beyond their comprehension: the impact of an oil embargo, drought and other meteorological phenomena, political maneuvers.

But this year, as Greenspan noted, there are factors involved about which economists are equally in the dark, the most important being the likelihood of substantial governmental moves against recession.

All forecasts made today are, therefore, accompanied by a substantial amount of ignorance and a considerable lack of information. And last year's results proved that either is sufficient to make a forecast almost useless.

Many economists concede that even when the facts are known, a forecast of beyond three months can plunge the forecaster into a dark void.

1974 earnings bloated by inflation effect

NEW YORK (AP) — Corporate profits were deceptively strong in 1974.

Profits of American business rose to an annually-adjusted, after-tax figure of $87.1 billion in the first nine months, up 20 per cent from the like period of a year ago.

In dollar terms this was a record, and profits by oil, metal, paper, chemical and sugar companies exceeded the average gains by wide margins.

Still, many businessmen and economists agreed that to some extent these earnings were bloated by the effect of inflation on inventories.

"Despite its appearance, American business is no more profitable now than it was 12 to 15 years ago, if as profitable," contends William Madden, chief economist for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Because of the difficulty in estimating the effect of these special factors on earnings, however, as well as the uncertainty prompted by the recession on fourth quarter earnings, economists say it's hard to really pinpoint over-all profitability in 1974.

"Exclusive of inventory profits, earnings this year will be virtually unchanged from last," says Richard Scruggs, economist for Standard and Poor's Corp., the business research firm.

"It's been one of the very best years, even if you exclude inventory profits," says Robert Lewis, vice president of New York's First National City Bank and author of its quarterly profits report.

Certainly for some companies the year brought exceptional results.

Iron, steel and nonferrous metal companies saw their profits rise 97 per cent in the first nine months of 1974 over 1973, according to the Citibank survey. Worldwide demand for nearly all metals gave the firms their biggest boom in years.

Sharply higher crude oil prices, inventory profits, and better prices for chemicals and natural gas pushed the average earnings of some 48 petroleum companies up 67 per cent in the first three quarters over 1973, the bank's survey noted.

Sugar producers, benefitting from short supplies and continuing demand, saw profits skyrocket from nearly-bankrupt levels as sugar prices rose from about 10 cents a pound to over 60 cents a pound on the futures markets.

Likewise market tightness and higher prices helped paper companies, at least until the start of the fourth quarter. Trimming product lines and stretching production runs, the industry managed a 52 per cent profit gain over 1973.

Ask Dick Kleiner

DEAR DICK: Why has Vicki Lawrence, of The Carol Burnett Show, suddenly changed her appearance? Her hair is atrocious and she's gained so much weight. What's her problem?— INTERESTED VIEWER, Mobile, Ala.

Well, she recently got married, if that's a problem. She made the change in her hair style— adopting a fuzzy natural— without consulting anybody on the show. It's her personal taste surfacing, that's all. Her weight, her friends say, always has fluctuated. It's just fluctuating up these days, maybe since she became Mrs. Al Schultz. Her new husband is the show's makeup man.

DEAR DICK: I am a "Gone With the Wind" fan and I recently heard that it was going to be on TV. Is this true? If it is, will it ever come back to theaters again?— S. D., New Orleans, La.

Yes, it's true. NBC bought the rights to show it on TV once from MGM— for a reported $5 million. But the deal was for just one showing; in effect, NBC simply rented it. The studio retains ownership and, presumably, will re-release it again for theatrical showing.

DEAR DICK: Can you please tell me how old John Denver's adopted son is?— MARYLOUISE PERRY, San Diego, Calif.

Zachary, Denver's adopted son, is now six months old.

DEAR DICK: Can you give me some information about the fellow who played the captain of the guards in the movie, "The Longest Yard"? Where is he from? What other movies has he been in?— M. H., Oklahoma City, Okla.

That's that fine character actor, Ed Lauter. He's a New Yorker, the son of a Broadway actress named Sally Lee. He was in the Broadway production of "The Great White Hope," then came west and has been very busy. You could have seen him in such movies as "Rage," "The New Centurions" and "Lolly Madonna."

DEAR DICK: Recently on TV I saw the old movie, "Little Women." My husband and I disagree about who one of the players was. I say Elizabeth Taylor was in it, but he says she wasn't even in the movie. And was Myrna Loy the mother?— MRS. R. B., Pilot Rock, Ore.

Another victory for the ladies. That 1948 movie starred Elizabeth Taylor, June Allyson, Janet Leigh and Margaret O'Brien as the girls, with Mary Astor as their mother. It was directed by Mervyn LeRoy, one of Hollywood's all-time greats.

Dawn of man to be retold

Erosion has cut through layer-cake sediments of two million years at Olduvai Gorge, Tanzania, and laid bare the campsites of earliest man who camped, hunted, and died there. Giant animals roamed the region until doomed by extinction. The fossil record of all these creatures, painstakingly extracted from the soil by Dr. Louis S. B. Leakey and his wife, Mary, reads like a biography of time itself.

A National Geographic Special about the Leakeys' work at Olduvai, "Dr. Leakey and the Dawn of Man," will be presented on Channel 9 at 5:30 p.m. Sunday.

Olduvai Gorge forms a 35-mile-long scar on the southeastern corner of Tanzania's Serengeti Plain on the flank of the Great Rift Valley. Says Dr. Leakey; "Olduvai is a fossil-hunter's dream, for it sheers 300 feet through stratum after stratum of earth's history as through a gigantic layer cake. Here, within reach, lie countless fossils which but for faulting and erosion would have remained sealed under thick layers of consolidated rock."

In Olduvai, Dr. Leakey and his family have found the remains, some mere fragments, of 18 prehistoric individuals. These include Zinjanthropus (East African man), who lived about 1,750,000 years ago. He belongs to the group of near-men called australopithecines. Zinj's massive, heavily worn teeth indicate a diet of rough vegetation. His proper name is Australopithecus boisei.

Homo habilis, nearly 2,000,000 years old, is more important. His name means "Man with ability." He possibly is the world's oldest tool maker. Some scientists believe the Homo habilis may be a direct ancestor of modern man.

The most ancient fossils of Homo habilis are older than those of Zinj, but oddly, he was a more advanced creature with a bigger brain. The size, shape, and wear of the teeth suggest that Homo habilis was a meat eater. He may have been able to speak, as Zinj certainly could not, since the broad U-shaped inner curve of Homo habilis' jaw would have permitted free movement of the tongue.

Capt. Midnight back in saucer

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — If you're between 25 and 35 years old, you're a product of the Captain Midnight generation of TV viewers. If you are, you may have wondered what's happened to that dashing figure over the years.

Richard Webb played that part, and today Webb is a good-looking man who doesn't look much older than he did in his space-hopping heyday. He's just emerging from 12 lean years and he says it's all the planets' fault that things were lean.

"My wife, Florence, who is an astrologer," he says, "has finally confessed the planets did it. For 12 years they've been just sitting there, doing nothing for me, and making it tough for me to do anything, besides."

From '54 to '58, Captain Midnight was one of the biggest things on the airwaves. For some years after that, the reruns called Jet Jackson, Flying Commando, continued to be big. But then the planets stepped in, and things were slow for Webb.

Now, everything's changed. His old sponsor, Ovaltine, has the rights to Captain Midnight and he's negotiated a deal whereby he'll produce new versions of the show. He feels he's too old to play the part, so he'll just produce. And he's updating the scenario a bit — now the dashing captain will tootle around space in a flying saucer.

Webb has also written a book, "These Came Back," which purports to be true reports of reincarnation. He believes in it firmly and cites a story out of his own life as proof.

As a young man, he met a girl and was infatuated with her. But they broke up — he was 19 — and he gave her a book as a parting gift. Some years later, he met a man who told him that, in a previous life, he had been a scribe with Genghis Khan.

Fade out. Fade in. Webb later met that old girl friend and there's still a spark and they got married. She showed him the book he had given her years before. It is the life of Genghis Khan.

"Why would a 19-year-old boy give that kind of book to a girl?" he asks, and there is no ready answer.

Speaking of reincarnation, there's a fascinating novel on the subject around now called "The Reincarnation of Peter Proud." Max Ehrlich wrote it and has also written the screenplay for the movie version.

He says he's had, for most of his life, two recurring experiences — not dreams, they happen when he's awake. Both are set in the Orient, a part of the world he's never visited. Yet both are replete with detail, and from what he's read the detail is absolutely authentic.

Musical tribute to Jerome Kern

The mellow, crisp music of Lawrence Welk's celebrated performers and musicians serves up a musical accolade to one of America's greatest composers, Jerome Kern, "who never wrote a song that wasn't simply great!" in the words of the Champagne Music maestro. The smoothly flowing hour with the music ranging from "Old Man River" to "My Bill," "Make Believe," and "A Fine Romance," will be presented on Channel 9 Sunday, from 9 to 10 p.m.

Ralna Hovis is double-spot-lighted, dueting "Make Believe" with hubby Guy, and soloing the unforgettable "My Bill." Tanya Welk's solo is "A Fine Romance," and Ken Delo offers "The Last Time I Saw Paris."

"The Song Is You" is Joe Feeney's contribution, and Bob Ralston at the organ plays "Yesterdays." "Look For the Silver Lining" is sung by Ava Barber, Bobby and Cissy dance to "The Way You Look Tonight," and Tom Netherton solos "They Didn't Believe Me."

Instrumentals, in Big-Band style, include "Who," "I Won't Dance," "Couldn't Be Cuter," "Old Man River," "I've Told Every Little Star," "Long Ago and Far Away," "All the Things You Are," and "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes." A rousing finale features Arthur Duncan, Bobby Burgess, Jack Imel, and the entire company.

"CAPRICORNS"

No! I didn't forget you Capricorns.

Your element is Earth. Nature's own girl, you love the great outdoors. Surfing at dawn is your idea of great fun—Caleche, Tabu or Russian Leather are the scents to accent your sensational sportswear.

Natural, simple fashions are your choice. Remember Mlle. Chanel's advice: "Always take off, never add." Myrna Stephens, who made it as a model, learned the importance of simplicity in dress.

Your room shows the Capricorn flair for decorating with signature touches, as your silver baby cup holding daisies. Add a touch of fragrance—spray your lamp bulbs with a little perfume.

You know how to make a dollar count. A money-wise idea, store your fragrant soap open in in your lingerie drawer; they'll double as sachets.

Being that your element is Earth, try Coty's Sweet Earth fragrances, or the fragrance of any earth perfume, it is the only perfume that captures the true fragrance of the woods, or a meadow on a spring day—right after a shower of rain.

The male Capricorn is capable of observing and analyzing problems and people soberly, objectively and dispassionately.

Combines a talent for economy and business, and through these talents he is predestined to become a certified accountant, real estate agent or hold a position in the Chamber of Commerce or upper brackets of civil service.

Capricorn-born males are the best hobbyists and amateur home constructors. He is a good partner in marriage, faithful, and has a strong attachment to his family.

This type of man should wear Pierre Cardin Cologne, after shave lotion, shower or bathe with Cardin soap, a touch of deodorant, and he will be all set to meet the day in public, wearing one of the most popular men's fragrance that has been introduced to the American male.

Splash a little cologne over your body before you retire at night and see what a refreshing sleep you will have.

The sweet sting of success makes Tony Bill a somebody

By DICK KLEINER
HOLLYWOOD (NEA)— If, as they say, "it can only happen in America," then Hollywood is the place where it is most likely to happen. It's still possible here for a person to make one picture and magically be transformed from a nobody to a S-O-M-E-B-O-D-Y overnight. Or even sooner.

Consider Tony Bill. His case makes Horatio Alger seem like a pessimist.

He didn't start out penniless. But his career as an actor was floundering. For a few years, back five or six years ago, he was looked on as an actor with promise. But the promise never seemed to materialize.

I first met Tony in Yugoslavia, when he was one of the company filming "Castle Keep." It didn't turn out to be a big film and Tony's relatively small part was overlooked. What always stuck in my mind then was his independence.

The rest of the company clung together, billeted in a lovely old hotel on the shores of the Danube. None of them ventured out and their contact with the Yugoslavs was minimal. But Tony and his family were different. They rented a house in the town—Novisad—and Tony's children went to a Yugoslav school and began speaking the language.

He came back from that long location and decided he was tired of acting, that he really wanted to be a producer.

The first film he made, "Deadhead Miles," was never even released, even though Bill had Alan Arkin as his lead. His second, "Steelyard Blues," was released and found a certain market, but was far from being a hit.

Hollywood is a town which judges people on a very narrow yardstick—you are either a success or a failure. Tony Bill had made two films and neither one of them had amounted to much. He was pigeon-holed as a flop as a producer.

But he kept trying. It wasn't easy, because Hollywood's doors are closed to failures. Tony Bill found a story by an unknown writer and the managed to get a couple of top actors interested in doing it. The project became "The Sting," with Robert Redford and Paul Newman, and suddenly the failure had the year's biggest success.

The men who used to turn their backs now came running to bask in his glory. The doors that were closed swung open. Today, Tony Bill can have anything he wants.

"I am not the reason for my success," he says, with a burst of modesty. "The only reason 'The Sting' was a hit was because it was a great script."

Perhaps alone among producers, because of the way "The Sting" began, he will read anything from anybody. He encourages unknown writers to send him material. His next film, "Hearts of the West," is by another unknown, Rob Thompson. It will star Jeff Bridges, Alan Arkin, Andy Griffith, Blythe Danner and Donald Pleasance.

Bill, nothing if not enthusiastic, speaks in superlatives.

"Jeff is fantastic, Andy will have a whole new film career, Blythe has more star potential than any other girl around," he says.

And Tony Bill will roll along. He's already planning other films—he's got his schedule set for the next two or three years. There is a big one called "Harry and Walter Go To New York," with Mark Rydell directing. There is an untitled love story. There is another scrip from Rob Thompson "and a couple of other things."

Bill is enjoying his success. Mostly, he's enjoying the recognition in the industry, the fact that now the studios come to him. But there are some material rewards, too.

"I've indulged myself," he says, "I made my dream come true. As a kid, I once went on a cruise in somebody's boat to Tahiti, and ever since I dreamed of owning a boat like that.

"I dreamed of owning a boat I could really go somewhere on. Now I have it. I bought a 65-footer, the Olinka—it was John Calley's boat, and Calley's wife is Olinka and it's unlucky to change the name of a boat. Someday, I'm going on that cruise to the South Pacific."

He says he's also indulging his hobby of antique cars, but looks on that as more of an investment than a luxury. He buys old cars, fixes them up, resells them.

"And just this morning," he says, "I remembered something else I want. I had always felt that the height of luxury was to have a phone in my car, and now I think I'll get one."

He's never been big on personal publicity—our talk was his first one-on-one interview he had granted in more than three years. He doesn't believe that personal publicity is important for a producer's career and product.

He doubts he'll ever act again. He says he never really liked it—"acting was a bore and the bigger parts I got, the more boring it became"—and gave it up as soon as he could support himself and his family as a producer.

"I was never going to be an actor," he said. "I started acting merely as a summer job and got stuck with it."

He did take one part last summer, but, he says, that was something of a paid vacation. But that will probably be the last. Now he hires actors.

FAMED PUBLICITY PHOTO for the movie "The Seven Year Itch" netted Marilyn Monroe a lot more "exposure" than expected and Lynnnda (above) exposes a pretty convincing impression of MM. Probably the most famous pin-up of all time is the "million dollar legs" pose of Betty Grable which Lynnnda duplicated (right) with ease. Not to be forgotten is that equally familiar photo of Rita Hayworth in 1941 (below) and Lynnnda's resemblance to the actress is remarkable.

Farmer Dick Smothers to commute for hour shows

The sign hanging over the front door reads "Honest Little Dickie Smothers. New and Used Cars," and from the looks of his front yard, you'd swear he really was running a car lot.

But Dick Smothers, a genuine "motor" nut, is actually doing farming more than anything else these days.

While preparing to start production on "The Smothers Brothers Hour," a new weekly variety hour that will premiere on NBC-TV Monday, (8-9 p.m. NYT), he is hard at work getting his northern California farm into shape for the time when he'll be away for four or five days at a stretch, taping the program in Burbank.

Known as The Squire of Grape Hill, Dick became involved with farming almost by accident.

"I was visiting relatives in Santa Cruz, Calif., this summer, flipping through the local newspaper, when my eye fell on an add for a nice chunk of hillside property," says Dick, who never fools around once he makes his mind. "I went out to look at it and bought it."

What he bought was a 35-acre farm sitting on the side of some small mountains. In addition to several acres of grapes, the land also contains pear, apple, peach and walnut orchards — and 14 huge redwood trees.

The house isn't exactly what Dick wants, but it'll have to do because he refuses to kill anything to get more room.

"I'd like to add a room or two, but there is a beautiful tree or fantastic bush in every direction and I won't cut them down."

One of the first things Dick bought was a tractor so he could clear the brush, and dig the water hole for the cattle pasture he's building. Dick doesn't buy just any old tractor, he buys a $10,000 Lamborghini vineyard tractor, which he handles with great ease as he zips up and down hills.

The three-bedroom home, built in 1938, has three showers but no baths. Dick, who likes nothing better than to soak in a hot tub, is going to convert an outdoor water tank into a hot soaking tub where he can sit and relax while admiring his beautiful ranch.

"It is just fantastic to have an escape like this," he says. "I can finish taping a show, head for the airport, and be sitting on my front porch in an hour. It's also a fantastic place to raise kids. If they can learn to avoid rattlesnakes and poison ivy they'll be much better people for being raised here."

Dick is also going to have to do something about stretching the garage. Among the motorized vehicles sitting on "Honest Little Dickie's" property now are a 1950 Ford station wagon that looks as though it had been built yesterday, a fancy German sports car, two pickup trucks, a "tree grinder," two motorcycles — and that hot-shot Italian tractor. Dick also owns a special stunt plane and a 60-foot boat but he's trying to sell them because, from now on, he plans to spend every spare minute as "Squire Smothers."

Dick Smothers relaxes with his dog Lotus, an Alaskan husky, at the entrance to his farm near Santa Cruz, Calif. Dick, now known as The Squire of Grape Hill, will commute from the farm to Burbank, Calif., for "The Smothers Brothers Hour," in which he will co-star with brother Tom on the NBC Television Network Mondays (8-9 p.m. NYT) starting Jan. 13.

Zippy cheese and onion souffle

By AILEEN CLAIRE

A hearty souffle served with a mixed green salad, homemade muffins and a fruit compote for dessert should lure the family to the table on time. A Potato Onion Souffle includes a Danish Samsoe cheese for an added flavor zip. It is filling and nutritious.

POTATO ONION SOUFFLE

6 large Idaho potatoes, peeled and diced
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1 large onion, minced
1/2 cup milk
3 egg yolks
1 1/2 cups (6 ounces) grated Danish Samsoe cheese
Salt and pepper
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Cook potatoes in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. While potatoes are cooking heat butter in a small skillet and saute onion until golden. Mash potatoes, beat in onions and their drippings, milk, egg yolks and 1 cup of the cheese. Stir until blended. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Fold in egg whites and then pile into a greased 2-quart baking dish. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 35 to 40 minutes or until puffed and brown. Makes 6 servings. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: The firm my husband works for has done some transferring and promoting. Eight months ago he got a new boss. (I'll call him Mr. X.) Since Mr. X has come into our lives I feel our marriage is falling apart. He is a selfish, rather sadistic bachelor and I disliked him from the moment we met. Mr. X has invited my husband to accompany him on out-of-town trips, fixed him up with "dates," and I find myself alone at least three evenings a week because my husband has to "work late." Last weekend our children went to the circus with neighbors because their dad was "summoned" to play golf and spend the day with Mr. X at his club.

I am not a clinging vine or a nagging wife. I am just a normal woman who feels as if something is going haywire in her marriage. My husband insists I am narrow-minded and if I want him to get ahead, I have to put up with some "inconvenience," as he puts it. What do you say?—Outside Looking In

Dear Out: I certainly hope your husband gets ahead. He can use one—with some brains in it. Or better yet, he needs some starch in his spine, so he can say no thanks to Mr. X's invitations unless he actually enjoys his new-found swinging disguised as "work." If the latter is true, I suggest you get a counselor into the act—or go alone if your husband refuses. You are bound to learn something.

Dear Ann Landers: A few months ago I was visiting relatives in Canada. My uncle drove me to the train station. When I told him his voice sounded very raspy, he said, "I should get out of this night air." A few minutes later he confided that he had cancer of the throat but asked that I not tell anyone. Two months later I received a phone call from my aunt informing me that my dear uncle had shot himself to death. He left no note of explanation and no one knew about his illness. His business was in perfect order. He had money in the bank. All his debts were paid and his wife will benefit from a very nice insurance policy.

Had my uncle spent his money on hospitals and doctors he would have impoverished his family and suffered a great deal of physical agony. The way I see it, Uncle was a wise man. I admire his manhood and respect his sense of values. What do you say?—Proud Nephew

Dear Nephew: I say two things. First: Your story sounds a little fishy. It's a rare insurance policy that pays off on suicide. Second: Cancer of the throat is not always fatal. When discovered early the patient has a chance of surviving—as many former throat cancer victims will testify. So, perhaps, Uncle wasn't as wise as you think.

Dear Ann Landers: My 82-year-old grandmother is visiting and we enjoy her immensely.

I've believed since childhood that Granny knows best. Her folk medicine seems to work better than the most expensive prescriptions. But—when our 5-year-old burned her hand on a hot pan last night Granny quickly smeared butter on it and then sprinkled on a little salt. I read somewhere that the best way to treat a burn is to put ice on it. Who is right?—Fran

Dear Fran: You are. Ice should be applied to burns immediately. Butter is the sure way to raise a blister. (Copyright 1975, Field Enterprises, Inc.)

Miss Thompson to be bride of Gerald Boyd

MISS VICKI THOMPSON

The approaching marriage of Miss Vicki Thompson, daughter of Mrs. Frances Thompson, Dixon, and Donald E. Thompson, Bloomington, to Gerald Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Randall Boyd, Dixon, is announced by the bride-elect's mother.

Miss Thompson, a 1972 graduate of Community High School, Normal, is employed at Orchard Glen Nursing Home, and her fiancé, who studied one year at St. Paul Bible College, St. Paul, Minn., following his 1970 graduation from Dixon High School, is an employee of the Kroger Supermarket.

Their wedding is being planned for Feb. 7 in the First Baptist Church, Oregon.

Travel Club program by Miss Dodd

Mrs. Pius Burgard entertained the Dixon Travel Club Tuesday night and introduced the evening's speaker, Miss Dorothy Dodd, Sterling, who presented an illustrated program on her recent tour of Russia.

Touring with a student group, Miss Dodd traveled from Paris to Cologne, Berlin, Warsaw, Moscow, Leningrad, Kiev and Prague. Among the interesting sights she photographed were a hotel near the Kremlin, the Brandenburg Gate and the monument honoring "Sputnik." Miss Alice Sheller, president, conducted a business session preceding the program, and presiding at the candlelit refreshment table arranged for a social hour were Mrs. Burgard and Mrs. H. W. Kewish.

The next meeting was planned for Feb. 4 when hostesses will be Miss Mary Jane Boynton, Mrs. Eric Gerdes and Mrs. Paul Swartz.

Polly's Pointers

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I cannot remove some lipstick stains from an expensive white patent purse I bought in Europe. There is no chance of contacting the store for information. These stains are from my hands after I had applied the lipstick and not straight from the tube. I have tried bleach, polish remover and detergents as well as the polish I bought with the bag but nothing helps. I also have shoes to match and hate to wear them soiled. — ROSE

DEAR ROSE — I do not know whether there now is a difference in foreign made patent but ours is usually a vinyl. I have had great luck removing spots of many kinds from white vinyl patent shoes and purses by rubbing with a cloth that had been dipped in rubbing alcohol.

— POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with people and organizations who insist on offering candy to children. I always have had trouble and resulting great expense with my teeth and am trying to save my children from the same. Our kids do get candy on holidays and special occasions so they are not deprived of it. On a day-to-day basis it is not available to them at home. It is hard to explain to a child that your reason for having them refuse it is for their own well-being. They cannot understand when they are offered it by the banker, at Sunday School for having been good and even by the doctor.

My Pointer is along the same line as for the above reason plus the high cost of sugar. I cut down on the amount of sugar used in desserts made at home. I use just enough to satisfy that "sweet tooth." — LIZ

DEAR LIZ — Since candy is also becoming more expensive due to the high cost of sugar perhaps your Peeve will be eliminated since candy may not be offered so freely. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Before I go grocery shopping I put my very STURDY rectangular plastic clothes basket in the back of the station wagon. Two brown grocery bags fit nicely in the basket. When they are put in at the grocery I am sure that one contains the "fragiles." The support of the basket keeps them from tipping over and spilling during the drive home. Put basket in the car last so it comes out first and carry groceries into the house in the basket. You have handles for a good grip and there is no danger of a torn paper bag. I seem to get the job done faster or perhaps it is the elimination of the frustration I used to feel. Do be sure yours is a heavy-duty basket and it will last a long, long time. — MRS. R. M. M. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Compton church is scene of Bettner-Pelc wedding

COMPTON — Recent marriage vows were exchanged in the First Baptist Church by Miss Barbara Bettner, daughter of Mrs. Patsy Bettner, Plainsfield, and Wayne Bettner, Paw Paw, and Johnnie Pelc, son of Mrs. Freida Pelc, West Plains, Mo.

Officiating clergyman for the ceremony was the Rev. William Gholson, pastor of the church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in her mother's wedding gown and veil. The white satin halter gown, complemented by a matching bolero, was trimmed with rhinestones, and her short veil of illusion tiers was attached to a rhinestone crown. The bouquet she carried combined blue and white strawflowers, blue carnations, white roses and baby's breath.

Miss Robin Jeanblanc, Oregon, who attended the bride as maid of honor, and the bridesmaid, Miss Leslie Holing, Paw Paw, wore identical full-length powder-blue gowns trimmed with lace, and they carried nosegays of blue and white strawflowers, carnations and baby's breath.

Edward Tenant, Paw Paw, was the bridegroom's best man; the bride's brother, Robert Bettner, Paw Paw, served as groomsman, and ushers for the ceremony were Michael Rex, Compton, and Ryan Jeanblanc, Paw Paw.

The service was followed by a reception in the Compton Sportsmen's Hall when approximately 65 guests were registered.

The bride, a 1974 graduate of Paw Paw High School, is an employee of Clara's Country Cafe, Compton. Her husband, who attended the West Plains High School is employed by a trucking firm, and they are residing in rural West Brooklyn.

By Oswald & James Jacoby
It is a good principle of defensive play to stick to leading the suit you have started with. It is a pretty good general principle but there are times when you must abandon it and try for something better.

West opens the king of diamonds against South's three no-trump contract. South can't afford to win that trick since he must take a club finesse later. West continues with the 10 and again South must duck.

At this point a West with a one-track mind will lead a third diamond. South will win; take and lose the club finesse and watch East suffer, since East won't be able to do anything to get West into the lead.

Before leading that third diamond West must realize that the play is hopeless. Maybe nothing else will be any better, but a shift to the 10 of spades might just be a winner. He should make that shift.

It will be a winner! South will have lost two diamonds and will have to lose two spades and a club later.

31 ballots unsuccessful

Choate continues push in House race

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Democratic leader Clyde Choate, the wily political veteran from Southern Illinois, will try again today to coax enough votes from his reluctant colleagues to become House speaker. It may be his last chance. Choate, 54, a fixture in state politics for 28 years, failed Thursday for the second day in succession to win the 89 votes needed to win the powerful post. The House adjourned until today after the 28th ballot. Choate has collected no more than 61 of the 101 Democratic votes and none from the 76 Republicans. His failure to expand significantly his support fueled speculation that the 40-some legislators loyal to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, who have supported Choate, may swing to a compromise candidate.

Bad times stalemate newspaper drives

CHICAGO (AP) — That old fashioned fund raiser — a community newspaper drive — has become the latest victim of the gloomy economic situation. Recycling industry men say mountains of baled old newspapers and magazines are building up with no place to go. "Because of the bad times there is a lack of products being packaged — it's as simple as that," says Larry O'Connor, manager of Pioneer Paper, the largest dealer in the Chicago area. O'Connor said he still is buying waste paper from citizen groups just to keep the recycling movement alive but so far has accumulated 2,500 tons of old paper. "The building industry is down and that hurts because it alone uses 10 per cent of all recycled paper in the country," O'Connor explained. "Our big overseas users of wastepaper — Taiwan, Asia, South Korea and Japan — have cut back. Exports are down close to 75 per cent." For the first time in 55 years, William Jacobs, manager of Central Iron & Metal Co., said his firm has stopped handling wastepaper business. "The old paper market always has been a good barometer of the times all over the world," Jacobs explained. "Every day people everywhere use paper in some form or other. At peak times we used to sell 6,000 tons a month to paper mills. More than 100 peddlers a day would bring in trucks full of the stuff and private citizens would drive up with their cars crammed with newspapers and magazines." Before the latest economic crunch, Jacobs said he was paying $40 a ton for wastepaper, recycling it and then selling it for about $50 a ton. "Two months ago we could get only $15 to $18 for it and just quit the business," he complained. Among those caught holding the papers were students at Lincoln Junior High School in suburban Park Ridge. "We had a paper driver as a school project in October then found we didn't have a buyer," said Warren Grayson, a social studies teacher. "The companies said they would take it off our hands if we would deliver it to them but wouldn't pick it up. "I had old papers stacked against the walls of my apartment and finally had it hauled away a little at a time by the garbage collector. A lot of the kids still have the stuff piled up in their basements and garages."

Tax relief for elderly 'affordable' says Hartigan

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Despite economic uncertainty Illinois can afford an expanded program of tax relief for senior citizens, Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan says.

Hartigan said he supports a bill to provide cash grants for persons over 65 who have household incomes of less than $10,000 a year, one of the few measures awaiting signature on Gov. Daniel Walker's desk.

Walker, saying his decision would be based on the economic situation and whether he thinks the state can afford it, has refused to indicate whether he will sign or veto the bill. The legislation also would increase payments to the elderly by 20 per cent under an existing tax relief program.

In a recent interview, Hartigan said he has no question about the state's ability to afford the program.

"There is enough money, and we owe it to our senior citizens to see that they have enough to live in dignity," he said.

But one problem associated with the legislation has been the difficulty in estimating the cost, and Walker and Hartigan differ sharply on this facet.

Walker's office has said the program would cost $50 million in the current fiscal year, while Hartigan contends it would not cost more than $38 million and could cost as little as $17 million.

Much of the uncertainty about the cost results from the fact that senior citizens would be required to apply for the new cash grants, as they must apply for the existing program, which provides aid when property taxes or rent exceeds a certain percentage of their income.

Illinois Focus

Hartigan said his top figure of $38 million would occur if every eligible person would apply for aid, but he added this assumption isn't reasonable.

About 45 per cent of the eligible persons have applied for tax rebates under the existing program, Hartigan said. At this rate, the new program would cost about $17 million, he said, and even at a 60 per cent level the cost would be about $23 million.

A spokesman for Walker's budget office said the $50 million figure was based on an expected 75 per cent level of participation.

Walker's experts contend that participation will soar dramatically as benefits increase and more persons become aware of the program.

"The sweeter the pot, the more people want in," a Walker analyst said.

But a major reason for the difference in the costs advanced by Hartigan's advisers and Walker's budget experts is a disagreement over the number of households potentially eligible for benefits.

The Hartigan people said their estimate, based on census figures, is about 460,000. The estimate from Walker's budget office is 515,000.

But Hartigan's staff said the difference is not enough by itself to account for the wide disparity between the two cost estimates. They said they fear the governor's pessimistic estimate may be a sign that he will eventually decide the state cannot afford the program.

Volunteer Resource Bank formulated

The Community Resource Development Council of the Lee County Cooperative Extension Service is composed of men and women from Dixon, Amboy, Franklin Grove, Sublette, Ashton and Paw Paw. They hope to have all geographic areas of the county represented on the council. The council is interested in learning what civic community projects are going on throughout the county and how each community can help one another. Members of the CRD Council are Mrs. Howard Morey, Mrs. Harry D. Miller and the Rev. Tom Shepherd, Dixon; Mrs. Lowell Beggs, Gary Croegaert, the Rev. Henry Holverson, Amboy; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Hann, Franklin Grove; Don Dinges and Elroy Lauer, Sublette; Albert McCloud Sr., Ashton; and Robert Wiley, Joe Jones and John Prentice, Paw Paw.

All clubs and organizations are continuously looking for someone to teach a group a particular craft or to share a hobby or skill such as photography, stamp collecting, cooking skills or handicrafts.

Every person has learned something in his or her lifetime, regardless of age or education, that he or she can share with others. Almost every person has an interest in learning a new hobby or talent.

The Lee County Community Resource Development Council is acting as a clearing house to match people who can serve as a teacher with those that want to learn or to meet others with similar interests. The council is interested in knowing about any persons wishing to share their resources. A card file will be prepared and kept in the Lee County Extension office in Amboy where any interested person may obtain information by stopping in at the office located at 39 East Avenue, Amboy, or phone 857-3525.

When contacting the Lee County Extension office the person inquiring will be given information about the inquiry. They may then contact this party and make plans as to time, location or financial arrangements.

We are now collecting information for the card file and would like you to help us by completing the following information. The three categories that we are interested in knowing about your helping with are:

1. Teacher—anyone with skills, knowledge, interest, or talents he or she is willing to share with others.
2. Learner—anyone who would like to learn a new hobby, talent or skill.
3. Interest match—anyone who is looking for other people who are interested in the same topic.

Spring-like conditions spark floods, tornadoes

By The Associated Press

A powerful winter storm erupted into spring-like violence today, triggering tornadoes and flash flooding over parts of the midcontinent after dumping foot-deep snows in the West.

Five persons were injured when a twister dipped into the northeast Arkansas community of Springdale early today. Police said the injured came from two mobile homes. Power lines were torn down and one home was heavily damaged.

Two persons were reported injured late Thursday when a possible tornado damaged several homes near Lake Providence, La.

Tornado watches remained in effect during the predawn hours for portions of Arkansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas.

The funnel clouds dipped out of thunderstorms that rumbled through the night from the lower Mississippi Valley to the Great Lakes region. March-like temperatures in the 40s and 50s were widespread through much of the country from the central Plains to the Great Lakes and Ohio Valley.

Flash-flood watches were out for the western half of Arkansas and several counties in Missouri. Golfball-size hail rattled into Ozark, Ark., during the night.

Winter storm watches and warnings remained in effect in the central and northern Plains and upper Mississippi Valley. Travel advisories persisted for mountain areas of the West where up to a foot of snow fell through the early hours Thursday.

An avalanche warning was continued for the Colorado Rockies. More than 50 such snow slides were reported there in the last two days.

Snow lingered in portions of the Northwest as well as the northern Plains. A fresh 6-inch snow blanket covered Pendleton, Ore.

Clear skies favored sections of the Far West outside the Northwest and most of the Eastern Seaboard.

Unseasonably mild weather was the rule in much of the country from the central Plains to the Atlantic. Normal January temperatures were confined to the northern and central Rockies.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from -14 at Havre and Cut Bank, Mont., to 75 at Key West, Fla.

Some other reports: Anchorage -14 clear, Atlanta 53 fog, Boston 38 cloudy, Buffalo 34 mostly clear, Chicago 47 thunderstormer, Cincinnati 44 cloudy, Cleveland 37 clear, Dallas 56 cloudy, Denver 12 clear, Detroit 35 mostly cloudy, Honolulu 75 mostly cloudy, Indianapolis 44 cloudy, Kansas City 49 cloudy, Los Angeles 57 mostly clear, Louisville 50 mostly cloudy, Miami 72 mostly clear, Minneapolis-St. Paul 33 snow, Nashville 60 cloudy, New York 39 clear, Philadelphia 40 mostly cloudy, Phoenix 47 clear, Pittsburgh 34 clear, St. Louis 50 thunderstorm, San Francisco 45 cloudy, Seattle 32 cloudy, Washington 39 clear.

Jan. 11, 1975
A great deal of your time this year will be spent bringing to fruition long-term projects. Lady Luck will now get in a few licks for you.

The Rev. Maurice L. Reed, pastor of First Baptist Church in Dixon for the past six years, has tendered his resignation effective Jan. 15. He will be moving with his family to Robinson, where he will assume the duties of pastor of First Baptist Church on Jan. 19. They will reside at 305 S. Jefferson St., Robinson, Ill.

The Rev. Mr. Reed has been active in the community of Dixon as well as in the activities of First Baptist Church. He has served on the Dixon Industrial Development Committee for the past three years. He served as president of Lee County Ministerial Association and as executive secretary for Sauk Valley's 73 Crusade for Christ with Bill Glass. He was chairman of the committee that established the chaplain program in KSB Hospital, and was on the organizing committee for FISH and has served on the Steering Committee from its inception some 5½ years ago. During the past six years First Baptist Church has seen growth in many areas. A bus ministry has been established, a junior church program is in operation, financial support has increased some 25 per cent, mission giving has topped the $20,000-per-year mark, over 130 new members have been received and many improvements have been made to the physical properties of the church.

The Rev. Mr. Reed has commented, "It is difficult for our family to leave the many friends in Dixon, but we are confident the Lord has directed us in our decision and will give us many new victories in our new community."

A public reception for the Rev. Mr. Reed and his family will be held Sunday in the Fellowship Hall of the church from 2 to 4 p.m.

Mental Health seminar for clergy

A seminar sponsored by the Sinissippi Mental Health Center entitled "Mental Health Issues in Pastoral Care" is scheduled to begin Jan. 21, according to Al Graff, Executive Director. All ordained clergy of Carroll, Lee, Ogle, and White-side Counties are invited to attend.

The seminar will concentrate on specific issues in pastoral counseling, as identified by ministers in preparation for this seminar. Some of the subjects to be dealt with include marriage and divorce, alcoholism, problems of conscience, emotional disorders, adjustments of the elderly, and psychotic processes. Special attention will be given to interviewing and counseling techniques.

This seminar is a part of the Continuing Education Programs held between Center personnel and the clergy periodically. According to August Hanke, Chairman of the Education and Public Relations Committee of the Center's Board of Directors, "Many parishioners with emotional, mental, or spiritual needs frequently seek counsel from their pastors. Clergy are in a key position to deal effectively with such problems and to prevent the development of more severe disturbances. This seminar will enhance pastoral skills and recognizes the importance of religion and mental health collaborating on areas of mutual concern."

Six consecutive sessions will be held each Tuesday morning between Jan. 21 and February 25. This series will be duplicated on an alternate day of the week if the demand indicates. All sessions are scheduled at Sinissippi Mental Health Center from 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. except for the final session, which will occur at the Emerald Hill Country Club.

Certificates of participation will be awarded to all registered clergy. The fee for the seminar is $5. Those pastors who plan to attend but have not yet made their reservations are asked to do so as soon as possible.

For additional information and reservations, clergy may contact Larry Prindaville, coordinator of the seminar, at the Center, 284-6611.

WINTER

Summer is gone.
Fall is past.
Winter has arrived at last.
The beauty astounding,
the die is cast.

The foliage of the trees disappear.
Snowflakes will soon be here.
The pillow of white shall cover the ground.
Snow birds will be seen all around.

Winter can be beautiful or very appalling.
The temperature can be just right or rapidly falling.
This season can be enjoyed by all.
By the adult, even the very small.

Winter is anticipated by the young in heart.
Many games to play, several take part.
This yearly happening is taken for granted.
Just as the product from the seed that is planted.

The creator of this universe is the artist, the credit belongs to him.
Only he can paint this picture, the final touches, trim.
We need to thank this Almighty God, while on this planet, man does tread.

Parish votes to end altar girls prohibition

BALTIMORE (AP) — The council of a Roman Catholic parish has voted to ask for an end to the prohibition against altar girls. Twenty-three girls have been serving Mass at the church for two years.

The vote to forward the request to Baltimore Archbishop William J. Borders and other officials came Sunday during a meeting of the parish council of the Lady of Perpetual Help Church in nearby Woodlawn. Only one of the 18 council members opposed the motion, which challenges church doctrinal tradition.

Bible course to begin

POLO — Members of the Polo community will have the opportunity to join Dr. Ed Bauman's Bible Film Course on the Old Testament, starting Monday. The Bible course will again last for 13 weeks, similar to the Bauman course that was completed Dec. 23.

Rockford congregations to celebrate Founder's Day

Founder's Day in Goodwill Industries commemorates the 112th birthday of Dr. Edgar J. Helms, originator of the international rehabilitation agency for the handicapped and disadvantaged, according to Norman K. Dasenbrook, president of Abilities Center Goodwill Industries.

This year the date falls on Sunday, Jan. 19 and since many of the Rockford and Loves Park churches are calling attention to Goodwill Sunday, no special observance is being carried out.

The public, both individuals and organizations, are invited to visit the Goodwill headquarters at 1907 Kishwaukee St., Rockford, and see the five programs of rehabilitation in action any working day during the year. Goodwill also provides free presentations with colored slides.

In cooperation with other agencies, Abilities Center Goodwill Industries provides a rehabilitation program designated to provide work in its sheltered workshop for the severely handicapped and a program of testing, work evaluation and adjustment, training and hopefully placement to help the trainee achieve a more meaningful and dignified life.

Throughout Northern Illinois and Southern Wisconsin the donors of the year will be recognized during this time. Also in several communities throughout the area the Goodwill Sunday is being observed in the churches.

In the 73 years since the founding of the first program, Goodwill has reached the annual service figure of 135,000 with over 25,000 each day — in the U.S.A. The Abilities Center Goodwill Industries in Rockford has served over 6,000 since 1936 with a daily average of 135 clients. In 1974 the local agency served 300 people.

"Goodwill has provided previously unemployable handicapped persons with the opportunity to learn and earn as they work. The goal is a job for each person in accordance with his or her abilities, not disabilities," Dasenbrook reported. In order to develop the primary mission of Goodwill, the agency has created sub-contract departments to be of service to industry and business.

Services are primarily made possible by public donations of repairable clothing, household articles, and through financial contributions.

The Prayer Tower

ORAL ROBERTS UNIVERSITY
(TULSA, OKLAHOMA)

By night and by day this 200-ft. high architectural inspiration dominates the south Tulsa scene but, more particularly, the 500-acre campus of Oral Roberts University. At dusk the flame at the pinnacle of this splendid spire leaps to life, signifying the baptism with the Holy Spirit and the man's dependence on Him for power to witness Christ's redeeming love. When dawn breaks the Tower emerges as a giant modern-day cross with its symbolic crown of thorns encircling a 360-degree observation deck 100 feet above ground level.

Built of glass and steel, the Tower was completed in April, 1967. It is the axis of a magnificent campus which radiates in all directions from its base. The reflective glass panels - primarily golden, with complementary blue and brown accenting panes - leave the viewer breathless with its beauty.

The Prayer Tower is entered from exquisite formal sunken gardens abounding in rare and beautiful trees and flowers which provide an impressive color panorama every season of the year. Located in the lower level of the Tower are: a visitor center from which guided tours are conducted regularly throughout the day; an auditorium (seating 106) within which are held periodic 20-minute slide presentations relating to the Prayer Tower, the Oral Roberts University campus and facilities, and the 10-minute presentation of the unique and memorable Abundant Life Mural - a depth-dimensional display of deep spiritual symbolism.

An elevator whisks visitors to the observation deck (unless, of course, one wishes to climb the 142-step spiral staircase). Here the entire campus unfolds below: from the ultra-modern, seven and eight story student dorms, the 10,500 capacity Mabee Center (Oklahoma's newest, largest and most complete collegiate indoor sports and community events facility) to the noted Learning Resources Center.

The Prayer Tower is a center of prayer, meditation and inspiration 24 hours a day, seven-days a week. Teams of two dedicated and trained Christian counselors staff the Tower at all times - praying for, and giving inspirational messages to, hundreds of thousands of callers who phone the Abundant Life Prayer Group annually from cities throughout the United States, and many distant nations. A 99-bell carillon (37 Flemish bells, 37 harp bells, and 25 English bells) plays hymns three times daily and its beautiful Westminster chimes strike the hours.

First opened September, 1965 as a non-denominational institution, Oral Roberts University now has students from all of the 50 of the United States and 26 foreign countries, and who represent more than 30 religious denominations. The phenomenal success of the university can best be attributed to its unique approach to the education of the "whole man" - with special emphasis on the spiritual and physical - as well as the intellectual development, enhanced by an exceptionally close student-instructor relationship. ORU is the home of the World Action Singers who produce weekly half-hour television programs and the well known one-hour prime time TV specials, "CONTACT!"

Americans enjoying their $400 million toothpaste

WASHINGTON (AP) — America is a nation of toothpaste. $400 million of goopy dentifrice squeezed from rumpled tubes last year in search of mint-fresh breath, pearly white teeth, cavity-free check-ups or a new love life.

Did it do any good? Dental health experts generally agree that toothpaste containing fluoride reduces cavities, if used regularly. But after several decades of research, scientists are uncertain whether toothpastes without fluoride have any advantage over a wet brush sprinkled with table salt or baking soda.

"If you're going to use a dentifrice, there is absolutely no reason it shouldn't be a fluoride dentifrice," said Dr. Stanley B. Heifetz of the National Institute of Dental Research.

It was 10 years ago that the American Dental Association's Council on Dental Therapeutics endorsed the first fluoride toothpaste to win the coveted council stamp of approval.

A second brand was accepted in 1969, and a third fluoride toothpaste now is under study by the council, dental association officials said.

As for nonfluoride toothpastes...

"Brushing your teeth with toothpaste is pleasant, there's no doubt about that," said Dr. Herschel S. Horowitz, another National Institute of Dental Research public health dentist. "It tastes good. It's foamy. Your mouth tingles. It's definitely a part of our culture."

But the rigorous clinical trials that would prove other major advantages of toothpastes without fluoride — for example, controlling chronic bad breath — haven't been conducted, say Dr. Heifetz, Dr. Horowitz and others at the National Institute.

Some people do need a dentifrice containing abrasive compounds to remove stains from teeth. Heavy smokers, for example, sometimes have this problem, although regular use of toothpaste with harsh abrasives can harm the tough enamel covering a tooth's outer surface.

"... at least some persons can maintain their teeth free from residual stains by using a suitable brush and water," the ADA's Council on Dental Therapeutics said in its most recent report.

"If only a slight degree of abrasion is necessary to keep teeth from staining, baking soda will usually be found satisfactory," the council said.

Dental researchers agree that for millions of people a wet brush is sufficient, without toothpaste.

But researchers, in interviews, express puzzlement why anyone taking the trouble to brush his teeth wouldn't use a fluoride toothpaste because of its proven cavity-fighting ability.

Fluoride toothpaste first appeared about 20 years ago. Studies since then have shown that when used once a day it can reduce dental decay 20 to 30 per cent in children.

But fluoride toothpaste isn't the best way to fight cavities. Fluoridating a community's water supply, thus making the chemical available to the entire body and not just the surface of the teeth, can reduce children's cavities up to 65 per cent, some studies have revealed.

Living in a community with a fluoridated water supply and then brushing with a fluoride toothpaste may heighten prevention, some studies have indicated.

Considerable research is being focused today on mouth rinses which contain fluoride.

Semetis is pleased with victories

Wrestling Dukes win pair

By MIKE CUNIFF
Telegraph Sports Editor

Ron Semetis, Dixon varsity wrestling coach, stated, "It's always nice to win two," after the Dukes successfully opened their 1975 mat season with a pair of victories at Lancaster Gymnasium Thursday night.

Dixon bombed Geneseo 48-4 and beat the Newman Comets 33-12, while Newman earned a 36-16 win over Geneseo. Dixon added another pair of victories on the sophomore level by defeating Newman 49-8 and Geneseo 47-9. Geneseo edged Newman 27-25 in the other match.

Double winners for the Dukes were Ray Wilson (112), Mike James (145) and Bob Pinegar (185) with a pin and a decision; Dan Frost (126), Mike Allen (167) and Ed Jones (heavyweight) with a pair of decisions, plus John Green at 98 with a decision and a forfeit.

Pinegar upped his season record to 11-0-1, including six pins, with an 8-3 verdict over Ed Minertz of Newman and a fall over Trent Darling of the Maple Leafs. James notched his seventh and eighth victories (against three losses), including his first pin against Newman's Tom Hannan.

Wilson's two decisions kept him tied with Pinegar for the most wins, with 11, while Allen improved his overall slate to 9-3 with a 10-0 decision versus Dave Gonzalez of Newman and a 4-0 blanking of Geneseo's Steve Stenzel.

Green got wins seven and eight for the campaign with an 8-1 decision and a forfeit. Frost notched his initial victories of the season with 12-0 and 15-3 verdicts. Mike McDonald also got his first varsity win at 155 with a 7-2 victory. Rockford Derksen upped his record to 3-6 with a 4-1 victory in the other 155 match.

"That's one reason I'm happy," Semetis commented. "Against teams like this, I can groom sophomores for varsity competition. I brought up Frost and he got two wins and McDonald got a win at 155. Saturday, I plan to use Randy Hazelwood at 155 versus Rockford Boylan."

Individually, Semetis stated,

"Everyone said the Pinegar-Minertz match would be the dual of the night and it turned out that way. Wilson is always exciting to watch. He makes mistakes but he does make a lot of offensive moves."

"I was scared going into the matches," Semetis admitted. "I had heard Newman had some good kids and they did have some talented individuals. We just wiped Geneseo off the mat but we need some of those matches for our morale."

"Some of our varsity wrestlers have moves they're afraid to use, but when they wrestle against someone who is a little weaker, they go ahead and try and this helps build up their self confidence. And a win or two for our sophomores really helps their morale."

"We're now 7-2 for the season," he added, "and we're grooming for the next two weeks. We hit the rated teams in our area like Rock Falls, East Moline, Moline and Rock Island. Sterling is another meet that should be close."

As evidenced by the scores, neither match Thursday was close although Newman claimed three of the lower weights as Scott Burrows stuck Warren Gridley at 105, Ed Conroy defeated Jim Magnafici 2-1 with a first-period take down at 119, and Barry Passini picked up a 3-1 victory at 132.

Dixon responded with decisions by Green (8-1 with a take down and near fall in the opening period) at 98, Wilson at 112 and Frost at 126. The Dukes did not lose a point in the final six upper weights as Steve Lybarger and Allen gained superior decisions, James stuck his opponent and Derksen, Pinegar and Jones all posted victories.

Only a tie at 105 and a loss at 138 marred Dixon's performance against Geneseo. Wilson, Magnafici and Pinegar got pins. Newman took five of the lower weights to defeat the Maple Leafs, as Conroy and Passini collected their second wins of the night. Conroy pinned Mark Pobanz in the fastest fall in the double dual, while Passini decided Ken Peal 12-2. Minertz and Randy Hussong added pins for the Comets.

In sophomore action, Joe Green, Steve Brandau and Mark Galindo had a pin and a decision each for Dixon. Andy Allen tacked on a pin and a tie, while Dean Harding got a fall and a forfeit.

HAPPINESS IS on one side of the net while grim looks are on the other during the championship match of the District volleyball tournament at Oregon on Thursday. Dixon's Toni Wasson (11) is very happy while teammates Jacqui Bogott and Kathy Cook (21) also give approval as an unidentified Ashton player goes to her knees unsuccessfully to return a shot. Dixon captured the championship with scores of 15-6 and 15-11 and will advance to the sectional at Lancaster Gymnasium next week. (Photo by Jim Harrison)

Black Hawk downs Sauk Valley

By EDWIN CALLAHAN
Telegraph Sports Writer

SAUK — The Sauk Valley College Redmen extended their losing streak to four games as they dropped a narrow 103-99 decision to Black Hawk College Thursday night. The game was a toss-up for nearly the whole time of play with Sauk usually ahead and the Black Hawk Braves threatening until they finally took the lead for good.

Sauk scored first when forward Tom Zinanni got the tip and made a lay-up. Two quick buckets a minute and a half later by Randy Paisley and John Windham gave the Redmen a 6-0 lead. The Braves got on the boards for the first time 2:33 into the game on a field goal by Art Shipp.

Two baskets by Zinanni and one by Mike Friedlein over the next two minutes put the score at 12-2 in favor of the Redmen. Black Hawk center Craig DeDecker hit for the Brave's second bucket of the game a few seconds later. Redmen John Windham got into the game with two free throws making the score 14-4 at 16:27.

Starting with Greg Eckert's field goal four minutes into the game, the Braves began to shake off the coldness that had put them 10 points down. A basket apiece by Eckert and Andy Sottos against one by Windham cut Sauk's lead to six points. Led by Hook, Sauk scored five points to the Brave's one over the next two minutes to put the score at 21-11 with 12 minutes left in the first half.

But in the next three minutes, Black Hawk out-scored the Redmen 13-6 to cut the margin to one point. They threatened for the next three minutes until Sauk, largely by the efforts of Mike Stockwell, put the Redmen ahead by seven points with 5:31 left in the half.

The Braves, however, began to immediately cut into this lead again. Baskets by John Brodell, Ron Jett, and Eckert put them within one point again; and another bucket by Jett gave Black Hawk the lead for the first time in the game. The Braves increased their margin to 50-46 with two minutes left. Then the Redmen's defense closed down keeping the Braves scoreless the rest of the half, while they collected three field goals and four free throws to put the Sauk ahead 56-50 at half-time.

The second half started out with some inconclusive basket trading. Friedlein and Eckert both scored a basket within seconds of each other. Zinanni added another for Sauk half a minute later. A bucket apiece from Sottos and Eckert cut the lead to 60-56. A long shot by Windham increased the Redmen's margin to six points again. Over the next four minutes, Sauk increased their lead to 10 points for the second time in the game. Holding it was another matter as the Brave's offense swung into gear again and pressured the Redmen.

Black Hawk slowly wore away Sauk's margin until a shot by Eckert put the score at 83-81 with a little over six minutes left in the game. Eckert dumped another to tie the game a few seconds later but was matched by Friedlein's field goal. Paisley's free throw increased the Redmen's lead to three. Shipp's bucket made the score 87-86 and one by Eckert put the Braves ahead. Sauk got the lead back immediately on Steve Hook's two free throws. The Braves went in front again on Sottos' basket and a free throw. DeDecker put the score at 90-88. Six rapid-fire free throws, four for the Redmen and two for the Braves left the score at 92-92. A field goal apiece from Shipp and Windham tied the score at 94-94.

Sauk then made two crucial mistakes that cost them the game. DeDecker was fouled by Windham while making a lay-up. DeDecker got the basket and the free throw to put the score at 97-94. Immediately afterwards a pass from Paisley to Hook missed and went out of bounds, stopping Sauk's momentum. A basket by Windham cut the margin to one point; but two free throws from Sottos, fouled by Paisley, put it back at three. Friedlein then made a free throw for Sauk. But Stockwell fouled Steve Eckert who entered the game with :42 left, who sank both of his free throws. Eckert was fouled again with six seconds to go and | hit two more from the line. Windham made one more field goal in the last second of the game to make the final 103-99. |    | Sottos and Greg Eckert led the winners with 27 and 24 points, respectively, while Brodell and Jett had 14 each. Six Redmen hit double figures paced by Stockwell's 19 and 17 by Friedlein. Zinanni and Hook contributed 16 apiece. Sauk's next contest is at home Saturday night versus Rock Valley. |           |

The Doctor Says:

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Your column on dieting and fad diets was timely for me. I've lost 17 pounds since June, eating less and no snacks. However, I stopped eating breakfast and lunch, as I don't have a cooperative husband. He thinks I don't eat enough, so when he's home I'm compelled to eat to keep peace on weekends. It's disheartening to get on the scales Monday morning.

I've experienced dizzy spells as you described. Also I'm awakened early with a charley horse in my leg. Is this coincidence? Could I lose easier just eating vegetables? I'm 62 and gained 20 pounds since I quit working a few years ago. I need to lose 25 pounds more.

DEAR READER — I usually think a person who needs to lose 20 pounds or more should have medical supervision. Sometimes people are overweight for medical reasons, but I must admit it is usually from eating too much of the wrong foods.

You are not unusual in having a mate who sabotages your diet efforts. Many men do not really want their wives to lose weight. Psychologists offer all sorts of reasons for this, some on target and others that cause me to raise an eyebrow. One theory is that some men think that if the wife loses weight she will be more attractive to other men. Another idea is that if she looks young and attractive she may be more demanding and may tax his ability to keep up. Of course, if he is overweight himself it can be quite a threat.

This works both ways. A wife may not really want her husband to lose weight. I have repeatedly seen wives who would not help their husbands with a diet even after he had a medical problem with heart disease or high blood pressure. She doesn't want to change her way of cooking or food preparation. The doctor is usually more successful if he talks about diets to both the husband and the wife. Unfortunately those conversations, when they do occur, are usually after the man has survived a heart attack and is on his way home from the hospital. It would be much better if it happened before the heart attack.

Now you know what I think about fad diets, so you shouldn't ask about going on an all-vegetable diet. What you need is a slow, sensible plan of a well-balanced diet. You need some protein in your diet, plus vegetables.

Those dizzy spells usually mean loss of water and salt from an improper diet or even starvation. Try to eat a small amount three times a day.

You can keep your husband happy by preparing low calorie dishes. Then he won't notice you don't eat so much. Low-fat cooking does a lot to decrease calories in your diet and really helps in weight control problems.

Loss of excess salt and other minerals often cause the muscles to have a tendency to cramp. That cramp in your calf muscle can well be from loss of too much salt.

If you lose weight gradually enough with a sensible diet program your husband won't notice it so much. Don't forget to use sensible exercise as part of your diet plan.

The Worry Clinic

"streaking."
"It has shocked me till I am almost a nervous wreck so have had to get tranquilizers from our family physician."
"Do you suppose her father is partly to blame for her 'streaking' behavior?"
"For he has been a nudism addict."
"And in our home, he demanded that we adults, as well as our children, go around the house totally naked."
"Only after Marie got into high school and started dating some of her classmates, did he consent to compromise with social etiquette to the extent of wearing clothes while in our home."

"For Marie protested that her daddy would ruin her romantic chances if her boy friends came to the house and saw him in the nude."
"So he reluctantly gave in to her demands, though he grumbled about it many times thereafter."
"Then he was stricken by a fatal heart attack a few months before her 'streaking.'"
"Marie was heartbroken and brooded about her quarrel with her daddy."
"Could her 'streaking' episode have been a form of penance for her sense of guilt in feuding with her daddy?"

Streakers Diagnosed:
Do you readers think Marie's mother has made a plausible diagnosis in this case?
For "streakers" are motivated to their show-off sexual conduct by several factors.
Sometimes it is a dare by their classmates.
For example, when I was at Dallas to address a dental convention, Mrs. Crane and her sister-in-law visited a big shopping center in the suburbs.
A large number of high school students appeared and formed two long lines to clear a central avenue between them.

Suddenly a teen-age boy streaker on roller skates zipped down the long avenue, protected by his classmates.
Alas, the boy fell on his rear piazza and had some difficulty trying to get back on his feet, for his skates kept slipping out from under him.
The streaker finally skated outside and fled via a waiting automobile.
Other streakers are motivated by a desire to get a little limelight or even have their pictures in the newspaper

At last year's 500-mile famous auto race at Indianapolis, several streakers thus ran out upon the race track.
One was caught and tossed high in the air repeatedly by four men, who held the corners of a blanket and kept bouncing him high overhead.
This picture was reproduced widely by newspapers.
Some streakers merely regress to their toddler state, where they'd shock their mother's bridge club members by coming downstairs a la nude.

The excited laughter, plus the "Ahs" and "Ohs," inflated their ego, so in later adulthood, such stifled egos revert to their toddler exhibitionism to gain sexual attention.
Others are hopeful of winning the attention of Hollywood scouts or Playboy and Playgirl editors.
